After age 30, hormone levels start to decline. Both men and women can experience symptoms of low testosterone which include lower libido, reduced sexual performance and orgasmic response, decreased enjoyment in life, feeling sad and grumpy, reduced athletic and aerobic abilities, decreased performance at work, loss of height, and after-dinner fatigue. Collectively, these symptoms are caused by hypogonadism which is in part due to the loss of testosterone that occurs over time.

Boosting testosterone levels can help to reverse these symptoms and improve quality of life.

HOW IT HELPS:

Andral is an all-natural supplement that helps to boost the levels of active testosterone (also known as “free” testosterone) in the blood. Within two weeks of taking Andral every day, active testosterone blood levels increase. Andral does not contain any testosterone but rather helps your body release testosterone that is stuck to blood proteins.

Think of it this way. When your money is tied up in a bank CD, you can't touch it. It's your money. You know exactly where it is, but you cannot spend it until the CD matures.

When your blood testosterone is tied up with blood proteins, your body cannot use it. As far as your body is concerned, this testosterone does not exist. Andral releases this bound-up testosterone so that your body can use it. Up to 98% of all your testosterone is tied up with blood proteins. When you take Andral, it is like the bank giving you access to 98% of the money in your CD even though it's not time yet.

Clinical studies have confirmed that Andral boosts active blood testosterone levels and helps people feel better. The ingredients of Andral also support proper brain chemistry to help you maintain a healthy mood.

Usual Dosage: Take two Andral capsules upon getting up on an empty stomach for maximum testosterone-boosting benefits.
